

TOP 10 MISTAKES SINGLE GUYS MAKE WHEN THEY VISIT LATIN AMERICA

By Daniel Delgado

pickupSPANISH
Learn Spanish. Get Girls.

1

BIENVENIDOS (WELCOME)

Confession: When I first arrived in Latin America, I made A TON of mistakes.

And even worse: I repeated them MANY TIMES OVER.

Then I got wise. As they say:

“Pain is a great teacher.”

While living in Latin America for the past decade, I've seen hundreds of guys committing these same mistakes over and over again.

I've also been fortunate to interview dozens of other foreign guys who are living in Latin America and who do very well with the local ladies.

As a result of all this interviewing, testing, researching, observing, coaching, falling on my face and getting up again...

I've identified the difference that makes the difference when it comes to dating the hottest women in Latin America.

I believe I've discovered the secrets that will allow any guy... no matter his age, looks, or bank account... to date hotter women than he's ever dated before.

Women that his friends at home would never expect him to get.

I've coached over four hundred guys on how to improve their dating life south of the US border.

And I've expanded this coaching into product lines that help guys get results even faster.

By the time you're finished reading this report, you'll have an education in how to enjoy great dating success in Latin America. An education that cost me years of my life and a good percentage of my bank account.

You'll have enough information to have the time of your life in Latin America.

And you'll never be lacking female company.

So let's dive in...

MISTAKE #1: DRESSING LIKE A GRINGO

Sartorial standards in the USA, Canada, Australia, and much of Europe, have declined sharply in the past 40 years.

Guys walk around wearing sports jerseys that are three sizes too large... while girls run to the convenience store wearing dressing gowns and pajamas.

Thank God for Latin America - A place where the women still act like women and the men still act like men.

That means being well-presented.

Please, don't dress like every other gringo who travels to Latin America.

That means no baggy cargo shorts and Jesus sandals.

Trust me on this:

- I've never seen a Latin man wearing sandals.
- I've never seen a Latin man wearing shorts unless at the gym or beach.

Your clothing communicates a lot. And here's what tank tops and shorts communicates to Latin women: this guy has low standards in the rest of his life. He speaks zero Spanish and is only going to be in town for a couple of weeks.

Don't be that guy.

MISTAKE #2: NOT PICKING YOUR DATE UP AT HER PLACE OR... PAYING FOR HER TAXI

Fact: most young Latinas live with their parents. They usually live with their folks until they get married.

The only exceptions are found in big cities like Bogota or Mexico City. In these cities, young professionals sometimes have their own place.

Here's another fact: flaking is an epidemic in Latin American countries.

Latin girls think nothing of blowing off solid plans with you at the last minute. Hell, sometimes they won't even tell you they're cancelling.... they just go silent, ignoring your calls and texts.

If you've tried to arrange dates with Latina women then you know what I'm talking about.

What you might not know is that living at home and flaking are related.

How?

Read on and I'll explain.

Girls who live in the suburbs will flake at the first point of resistance. It's a big effort (and an even bigger expense) for a Latin girl to travel to meet you at your city-center, Airbnb apartment.

So it's up to you to remove those points of resistance.

Here are two things you can do, depending on the level of your Spanish and the size of your balls:

1. Send her a taxi (paid for)

Or

2. Take a taxi yourself and drive by her place to pick her up

So few foreign guys do this and that's why they get flaked on so much.

Here's what these fools do instead: guys set up a bunch of dates, ask the girls to come to them (like ordering Chinese food) then get flaked on.

A while later they leave Medellin, Colombia, angry and bitter at the local women.

Sad times.

MISTAKE #3: LETTING HER MAKE THE DATE ARRANGEMENTS

Latin girls are traditional and sexy, but they have a dark side...

they're devious.

If you leave the date plans up to her, she'll choose places that give her the most luxurious experience and the best photos for her Instagram...

all on your dime.

And that's not even the worst of it.

If you let her decide on the date - you're not taking charge and thus you're not being a man.

She will lose attraction for you.

Gender dynamics are still alive and strong in Latin America - men lead and women follow. Letting her take the lead will make her unhappy.

Double whammy.

Even if you've just arrived and don't know the city. Even if your Spanish sucks at the moment...

You need to step up.

No excuses.

MISTAKE #4: OVER-GAMING AND BEING COCKY

Most guys who travel to Latin America to expand their dating options are usually familiar with game principles.

That's great, but this knowledge can be your downfall.

Here's why: most pickup tips are meant for dating in the West. Women in these countries have the upper hand. Being a smart-ass, playing hard to get, etc., are attempts to wrestle back some power and gender polarity.

But in Latin America... that stuff isn't necessary.

Not only is it unnecessary... it's also counterproductive.

You might meet a Dominicana who is into you, but if you try to bust her balls... she'll disappear quicker than if you had said: "I'm unemployed".

Here a few more reasons to keep your game basic:

1. Latin humor is very different from North American humor
2. Many guys don't have the level of Spanish to communicate subtle humor

So what should you do?

As little as possible.

As a foreign guy, you already have enough value. You don't need to amp it up with too much game.

Just be Mr. Smooth and Mr. Direct.

MISTAKE #5: ADVERTISING YOUR PLAYER STATUS

Story time: I was once dating a girl in Puerto Rico.

One night, she was busy with school so I went out with a buddy of mine and his girlfriend.

During the night, someone took a photo of the three of us. In the shuffle, somehow I ended up in the middle with my friend to my right and his girl on my left.

Looking at the photo, you might conclude that my buddy was alone and I had a girl with me.

The next day, my girlfriend saw this photo on social media.

She flipped. Full-Latina style.

She called me up, gave me a torrent of abuse in rapid-fire Spanish.

And said we “We’re done”.

Just like that.

I tried to explain the situation but it did no good.

Here’s the lesson: Girls in Latin America know that foreign guys have high value. They know you have options.

She knows she has a lot of competition.

She knows that she has to keep up her game to keep you satisfied. That’s when she’ll break out the cooking, high heels, makeup, and passionate sex.

If you want to avoid the wrath of a furious Latin girl, remember: she knows. Don't make it obvious.

If you do, she will call you a perro (player). She will suspect you of cheating on her and Latin women get VERY jealous.

No photos. No friends who are girls. Not allowed.

You've been warned.

MISTAKE #6: GROOMING LIKE A BACKPACKER

I once dated a girl in the Dominican Republic. Lying in bed at the end of our second date, she told me she liked me and made up her mind to sleep with me when she saw my teeth.

She said that she liked that my teeth were so white and clean.

She went on to say that lots of guys from Europe (especially) had bad teeth. A badly maintained grill was a big turn off for her.

Latinas believe these stereotypes because they've seen it so often over the years.

Backpackers arrive in Colombia and haven't showered since they left Ecuador.

And they haven't washed their underwear since before they hiked up Machu Picchu.

Not surprisingly, Latin men are impeccably well-groomed. In Colombia, it's common for a man to get a manicure and pedicure.

Nothing "gay" about it.

I once saw a Colombian gym owner have a manicurist come to him to sort out his toenails right there in the reception area.

Brazilian people take two showers per day.

It's no accident that Latin America is the plastic surgery capital of the world.

Looks matter.

So go the extra mile: get a pedicure, get your teeth whitened, and get those eyebrows tweezed.

MISTAKE #7: BEING TOO SEXUAL/ BRINGING UP SEX TOO SOON

This mistake applies not only to Latin America but to seducing girls worldwide.

But I'm including it here because sex in Latin America is expressed through the physical but never the verbal. You can thank Catholic guilt for this paradox.

Listen: because many foreign guys communicate with Latinas via text message... they make the mistake of talking about sex through the digital medium.

Big mistake.

Sex should only be communicated in one place: your place. And it should only be communicated in one way: through your body.

That's it.

So stop "sexting" in Spanish. Save it until she is at your place.

Latina girls are already wary of foreign guys coming to visit to get laid. So be one of the few guys who doesn't talk about sex until it's game time.

If you're looking for specifics on the best way to do this, read on to mistake #8..

MISTAKE #8: DANCING LIKE A GRINGO

The third evil sin committed by every gringo, after dressing like shit and smelling like shit is...

dancing like shit.

Or dancing like a chicken suffering from delayed onset muscle soreness after a heavy leg session at the gym.

To be fair, this running joke only extends to white guys and is not unique to Latin America.

It's partly true, but it's not a genetic curse. Looking scared and lost on the dancefloor is the fault of the culture that we grow up in.

Even though it appears that Latin people have rhythm in their blood, they weren't born that way. They just don't remember learning. They first started dancing at their huge family get-togethers with their primos (cousins) when they were little boys and girls.

I've reached a passable level in both Salsa and Bachata and you can too - even if you're a white guy.

Here's a tip: Salsa is fast and complicated. Opt for electronic music instead.

If you want to take baby steps in Latin dance, try Bachata. It's easier than Salsa, but it's not popular outside the Caribbean.

Dancing is the best way to loosen up stiff body language.

Bar none.

MISTAKE #9: NOT MEETING HER FRIENDS AND PARENTS

Remember I said that Latina girls live with their parents until they're married?

And how they learned to dance from the huge inter-generational family get together as a kid?

Fact: Latin America is a family-oriented culture. Exploring the economic and religious reasons behind this are outside the scope of this report.

But here in the US, as soon as you go to college or turn 18, your parents say you've "flown the nest".

Freedom!

Family values have waned in the West due to the effects of the rat race and a youth-obsessed culture.

But in Latin America, family ties and the good opinion of your friends are very important.

Any man who ignores this truth when dating a Latina will be swiftly axed.

Be prepared:

1. Extended family is big in Latin America. Girls go out with their cousins and aunts.
2. If you approach her at night or during the day, she'll more than likely be with friends or family

Even if you don't want a long-term relationship with her, you can still guarantee a regular bang if you make the effort to meet her family and friends.

When she invites you, just go.

Smile and say all the right things.

She will reward you with all the hot, sticky sex you could ever want.

MISTAKE #10: JOKES ABOUT RACE, VIOLENCE, DICTATORS, POLITICS, DRUGS, ETC.

Latin people have stereotypes about white people having no rhythm and no style.

Kinda true.

But stereotypes work both ways.

Delivered to us from the mainstream media, what are our perceptions of Latina American countries?

Answer: It's all drugs wars, dictators, racism, poverty, and civilian strife.

For some reason, many a gringo will think it's funny to joke about how he came to Colombia because he loves the TV show "Narcos".

Then he'll dig himself and even deeper hole by saying he wants to "find the best cocaine in the world."

Cue eye rolling and leg closing from the local girl.

She's heard it all before. As has everybody else in her country.

So here's the lesson: DO NOT even talk about Pablo Escobar, narcotics, petty crime, politics, etc. in Latin America.

Note: - Consider joining the Pickup Spanish course to learn more about the type of humor that Latinas like.

MISTAKE #11: NOT KNOWING SPANISH

Yes, this is more than 10. I've given you an extra bonus.

And I've left the most important mistake till last. I want to leave you with this thought.

If you're serious about learning the Spanish you need to date beautiful Latinas then have a look at our courses.

Our courses are perfect for any guy who is currently living around some Latina beauties in the USA... or any guy who wants to travel to Latin America soon.

If you've already taken the first step by studying basic Spanish - great! Once you try out our course, you'll see the value in learning targeted parts of the language. Such as:

- How to meet, greet and date
- How to build humor and sexual tension into the conversation with a Latina
- What signs to look out for... so you know if that chica is interested in you sexually or just as an 'amigo'
- And much more!

Click here if you want to learn how to talk to gorgeous Latin women... without having to work Spanish classes around your schedule.

STAND OUT TO GET OUTSTANDING DATES

You'll notice that this report emphasizes differentiating yourself from the other foreign guys at all costs.

It's all about shattering her preconceptions. When she thinks she has you pigeonholed and you surprise her, it's very attractive.

Your goal is to combine the best qualities of Latin men: dancing, Spanish, meeting her friends, good grooming...

but without all their infidelities and macho attitude.

Mix that up with the best qualities of gringos: foreigner value, cool date venues, worldly experience, cute accent, exotic looks, etc.

You'll be the perfect seducer for Latin America.

What to do next...

If you're a single guy planning a trip to Latin America or you're heading there soon...

Then I recommend you consider signing up for my Pickup Spanish training course.

In this course, I walk you through (step-by-step), the Spanish you need to get more dates with higher quality women in Latin America.

From creating your online dating profile in Spanish... to how to learn conversational Spanish in record time.... to how to have a successful date with a Latina.

Get more information at costaricainspanish.com/go/PickupSpanish2GetGirls/

Oh, by the way: If you enjoyed this report, please forward it to others and tell them to get on my interested list!

I appreciate it,

- Daniel Delgado

